ABOUT US

OUR STORY

New Vision began as a job training program through Vision Appalachia in 1999, emerging in 2012 as a non-profit headed by visionary and CEO Pastor Ruston Seaman. New Vision is based in a small community known as Chestnut Ridge. Through the generosity of faithful sponsors, grants, and community partnerships, New Vision has built vital relationships with rural communities across Appalachia and the globe to empower those most disadvantaged by inequality and poverty.

We provide a variety of opportunities and resources for rural communities in the Appalachian Region:

- Workforce Development
- Mental Health Support
- Housing
- Mentorship Programs

Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed individuals can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has. -Margaret Mead
